Forest Fires Fanned by High Winds

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
 Critical storms, pushed gusts up to 30 miles per hour and fanned forest fires in Idaho and western Montana Wednesday chasing several crews from the path of British Columbia, the Northwest's other critical fire area, conditions were little changed early today. A 30,000-acre blaze at Shuswap, 250 miles northeast of Vancouver, still burned out of control. Canadian officials reported 335 fires still burning. More than 100,000 acres of forest land in Idaho, Montana, Oregon and British Columbia have burned in the past two weeks. Early today, it was estimated about 80,000 acres were still aflame or smoldering. As wind gusts bore down on two blazes totalling more than 5,000 acres in Glacier National Park, officials reported crews were scurrying to avoid shifts in fire directions. No injuries were reported.

Would Update the County Governments

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — The Local Government Committee of the Arkansas Constitutional Revision Study Commission has emphasized in a report released Wednesday that the present structure of county government should be updated rather than completely revised. The committee recommended a stronger checks-and-balance system for counties and home rule for cities. It also recommended that a legislative body, limited to five or seven members, replace the quorum court, that the county judge be relieved of legislative and judicial functions and that the legislature be allowed to establish optional forms of government for the counties. The cities currently have only the powers that the legislature and the Constitutions grant them. The committee recommended that it should be the right of a municipality to use any powers not denied by the legislature, the Constitution or its charter.

JUST DROPPED IN and thought I'd call, says service station manager Ronald Ritch of West Seneca, N.Y. Winds up to 85 m.p.h. toppled the phone booth just outside Ritch's gasoline station, and when he tried to call the telephone repair company to report it, he found the phone was still working.

Johnson Calls Rockefeller a Promiser

HOT SPRINGS, Ark. (AP) — Jim Johnson, the 1966 Democratic gubernatorial nominee, called Gov. Winthrop Rockefeller a "promiscuous promiser" Tuesday and also managed to work in a few verbal pokes at former Gov. Orval Faubus during a speech to the Arkansas Farmers Union.

Johnson said he was late to the meeting because he was looking for "that Alpine Freeway Winthrop Rockefeller promised them in Hot Springs last year. But I knew I'd be able to find the trolley cars he had promised to rim across the mountain tops and when I couldn't find them, I looked for the boardwalk. I couldn't even find that."

Johnson said that because of his inability to find the freeway, trolley cars and boardwalk he had doubts as to whether the Hot Springs' gambling casinos had been closed.

Johnson said he had understood Faubus was going to appear but that he was "probably up at Huntsville tending to his grandbabies and taking up tickets from the tourists who wanted to view his mansion."

Johnson invited the Farmers Union members to visit him at Conway and told them it "wouldn't cost them a dime."

MOP Freight Cars Derail

BENTON, Ark. (AP) — Two cars of a Missouri-Pacific Railroad train, including the caboose, derailed about 1/4 mile southeast of here Wednesday night.

Three Mo-Pac employees who were riding in the caboose sustained minor injuries. C. E. Dickson of North Little Rock was held overnight at the Missouri-Pacific hospital at Little Rock for observation. D. H. Risk of Jacksonville and Charles Chambliss of Little Rock, both brakemen, were treated for minor injuries and released.

A spokesman said the train was headed to Little Rock from Sheridan.

Thieu Again Fails to Join the Campaign

RACH GIA, Vietnam (AP) — Chief of State Nguyen Van Thieu called off an appearance with the other presidential candidates at the last minute today, continuing his boycott of the official campaign tour.

Thieu's aides in Saigon said Wednesday night he would join the 10 civilian candidates today at Rach Gia, capital of Kien Giang Province next to Cambodia and an area where Viet Cong activities are rare.

It was the eighth stop on the tour of the countryside that the civilian candidates are making. About 2,000 persons crowded into a movie house in the center of the fishing and farming community.

A representative of Thieu and his vice presidential running mate, Premier Nguyen Cao Ky, said the press of official business forced Thieu to cancel his plans to come to Rach Gia.

The election law says the candidates must campaign together or not campaign at all. Since Thieu and Ky have failed to join the other candidates in the Ky commanding large support 11-stop swing through the provinces, their opponents accuse them of campaigning illegally on their own. Thieu and Ky claim their frequent trips outside Saigon are "nonpolitical" and part of their official duties.

Kien Giang Province is considered firmly in the military ticket's column, with Thieu and from those of Cambodian stock, Catholic refugees from North Vietnam, and members of the Hoa Hao, a nationalistic religious sect.

Whites Angry, Negro Riots Set Back Cause

WASHINGTON (AP) — The cure to ills that sparked summer riots in Negro slums lies in the nation's overwhelmingly white suburbs—but suburbanites aren't likely to help right now, says the new U.S. deputy attorney general.

Warren M. Christopher, 41 the Justice Department's No. 2 man, said in an interview that white suburbanites may show their fear and anger over the Negro riots by blocking efforts to clear up big city problems.

Although he predicted suburbanites eventually will "overcome fear and prejudice," he said their initial reaction to the riots will be to reject necessary closer ties with Negro inner city neighborhoods. Suburbanites, he said, probably will reject pleas for more money needed for new schools, hospitals and transportation.

Christopher, formerly a Los Angeles lawyer, was vice chairman of a commission that investigated 1965 rioting in that city's Watts section. He also was the top-ranking Justice Department official on the scene during last month's Detroit riots.

Christopher conceded the riots may show some very short term benefits for those in Negro slums.

But, he said, "the setbacks will far outnumber the steps taken to ameliorate the situation thereafter. The fear instilled in the white community—the bitterness—is just incalculable in terms of the harm it does."

Gambling Raid at Harrisburg

HARRISBURG, Ark. (AP) — A raid on the Harrisburg Country Club by Polk County authorities has resulted in the seizure of a poker table, a blackjack table, a dice hour, about 10 packs of cards, seven dice, one poker rack and chips.

The raid occurred Tuesday night after an investigation by Bill F. Skipper, a Criminal Investigation Division agent. Skipper's investigation was prompted by a report from Sheriff Ray Holmes that he heard gambling had taken place at the Country Club.

Skipper said he saw blackjack and poker games in progress at the club. Holmes said Joe Blansett, an employee of the Country Club, was the only person present at the time of the raid.

Hope Native Professor at Hendrix

Kenneth M. Gilliam, a native of Hope and the son of Mr. and Mrs. Guy E. Bayse of 1020 East 3rd, is the new assistant professor of speech and drama at Hendrix College in Conway. He will begin his teaching duties with the opening of the fall term and will teach nine hours of classes—theatre production, voice and diction and a freshman English course. Gilliam will also be in charge of the stage designing and lighting for the first dramatic production at Hendrix and will direct and do the technical work for the second production.

Gilliam received his B.S.E. degree from Henderson State Teachers College in Arkadelphia and his M.A. degree from the University of Arkansas, where he attended graduate school as a graduate assistant in the department of speech and drama. He then returned to Henderson and taught for three years. He was awarded a teaching fellowship by Ohio University in Athens to work on his Ph. D. degree. He spent two years there and has completed all requirements for his doctorate except the dissertation. His degree, when completed, will be a Ph. D. in fine arts with a major in theatre and art and a minor in literature.

He was appointed administrative assistant to the chairman of the department his second year at Ohio University and was in charge of screening graduate students and the grading and distribution of grades for the 2,000 students in the department.

His stage design for William Saroyan's "Hello Out There" received special recognition earlier this year when the book invitation to the Theatre by Dr. George Kernodle was published. Dr. Kernodle, who teaches at the University of Arkansas and is known throughout the country as a leading authority in drama, included a picture of Gilliam's stage design in his book. One of Gilliam's play cuttings from "I Am A Camera" has been included in another theatrical publication.

In dramatic productions at Henderson and the University of Arkansas, Gilliam held many lead roles such as the lead in James Thurber's "The Male Animal," Henry IV in Shakespeare's play of the same name, Mr. Antrobus in Thornton Wilder's "Skin of Our Teeth," the lead in Wilder's "The Matchmaker," Creon in "Antigone," a Greek drama by Sophocles, and others.

While teaching at Henderson Gilliam directed Sandy Wilson's "The Boyfriend," and Moliere's "Tartuffe," which he took to the State College of Arkansas speech festival recently.

Gilliam is a Hope High School graduate and is married to the former Sue Moore, also from Hope.

Veteran's Benefit Bill to Johnson

WASHINGTON (AP) — A bill greatly increasing a long list of benefits for veterans, including those who have served in Vietnam, has been sent to President Johnson by the Senate.

The bill's final provisions, said Sen. Russell B. Long, D-La., its floor manager, go far beyond the administration's budget requests. But he said he is confident the President will sign it.

The bill includes these main features:

— Pension increases for two million veterans and their widows amounting to 5.4 per cent for most recipients, with hikes up to 8.5 per cent to widows in the lowest income categories.

— Vietnam veterans would receive the same levels of benefits as veterans of other conflicts.

— Educational allowances for veterans qualifying under the "Cold War" G. I. Bill would be raised and several categories of training would be added.

Because of a delay in bringing up the bill, the soonest it could go into effect is Oct. 1. Sen. George D. Aiken, R-Vt., said he believes the delay was caused by the administration's desire to save some $25 million, about the cost of one month's benefits.

Under the bill veterans can complete their high school education at the full benefit rate. It also would bring on-the-job, on-the-farm and flight training under the law for the first time.

FUROR OVER

 closed meeting of the full Labor Committee earlier this week. Clark declined to discuss the matter but a newsman obtained the memo from other sources who gave this picture of the furor:
 The memo was drafted in OEO after a meeting in the White House office of Joseph A. Califano Jr., special assistant to the President. The meeting was held after the subcommittee approved its version of the anti-poverty bill.

Copies were sent to all Democrats on the committee except Clark. The White House said later Clark was omitted by mistake and it had apologized to the Pennsylvanian.

Clark quickly learned about the memo and read it at the committee session Monday.

Some Democrats on hand denounced the administration's handling of the matter as "stupid" and said their reaction was to support the subcommittee bill.

The subcommittee bill authorized $2.2 billion for a one-year extension of the controversial program, $148 million more than Johnson asked.

But it also tied to the bill Clark's proposal, growing out of this summer's riots. For a $3 billion emergency program.

Clark said in an interview he was not surprised at the President's rejection of this program. It was inevitable because of the budget stringency resulting from the Vietnamese war, he said. Clark opposes U.S. policy in Vietnam.

Hearings on Constitution

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — Hearings begin Thursday at the state Justice Building on controversial issues to face the state Constitutional Revision Study Commission.

The commission said witnesses would discuss methods of handling the issues in a new constitution, rather than discussing the pro and con sides of the issues themselves.

The issues to be discussed include the Hot Springs horse racing amendment, the "right-to-work" amendment and the constitution's usury law that sets a ceiling of 10 per cent of interest rates.

BRYSON-BROWNING VOWS REPEATED

Mr. and Mrs. J. J. Bryson, both of Prescott, announce the marriage of their daughter, Sara Janet, to Larry Joe Browning, son of Mr. and Mrs. Grady William Browning of Hope. The double ring ceremony was solemnized August 16 at 7:30 p.m. in the home of the bride's mother, with the Reverend Larry Gaines of Fary, Texas officiating.

Mrs. Eloise Reigner, organist, presented the nuptial music. The bride was lovely in a two-piece baby blue knit suit with a matching hat and finger tip veil. She carried a cascade arrangement of white stephanotis centered with a natural orchid.

Mrs. James L. Brooks, the bride's only attendant, wore a matching beige knit suit and matching hat. She carried a ballerina bouquet of pink stephanotis centered with pink frenched mums.

Jerry Browning, brother of the groom, served his brother as best man.

The vows were exchanged before an archway of votive lighting interspersed with greenery. Beautiful arrangements of pink frenched mums and carnations were placed at vantage points throughout the house.

A reception was held immediately following the ceremony. The table was covered with an heirloom lace table cloth, centered with a bride and groom.

tered with a bride and groom under a lighted archway flanked with pink mums. Serving at the three-tiered wedding cake was Mrs. Buddy Putman, of Arkadelphia and serving at the punch bowl was Mrs. Larry Gaines of Gary, Texas, and Miss Veronica Wardlaw of Hope. Mrs. Herbert K. Reamey, III, of Arkadelphia resided at the bride's book.

After a wedding trip to Six Flags Over Texas and the Gulf of Mexico, the couple will be at home at 610 N. 15th St., Arkadelphia, Ark. The groom is a senior biology major at Henderson State College and will be commissioned as 2nd Lieutenant in the U.S. Army upon graduation in May.

The bride is a junior business major at Henderson, and will receive a secretarial science degree in January.

MISS JAN GAINES HONORED

Miss Jan Gaines, bride-elect of George Wright Jr., was honored at a coffee given Sat. Aug. 12 by Miss Diane Ellis and Miss Phala Brown at the Heritage House.

The table was decorated with three large crystal epergnes containing an array of pastel summer blossoms and a white cloth covered the table featuring a runner of satin ribbon.

The Honoree was presented with a daisy corsage, and a lovely gift of silver by the hostesses.

The guests were greeted by Diane and Phala, and presented to the honoree and her mother, Mrs. James Gaines.

Alternating at the coffee service and punch bowl were Mrs. Kenneth Paddie and Miss Carla Purdie. About 50 guests called.

Cigarette Probers Turn to New Filter

By WALTER R. MEARS

WASHINGTON (AP) — Investigating senators seeking a safer cigarette turned today to a new filter claimed by its sponsors to be far more effective than those now on the market.

A Senate Commerce subcommittee already has been advised that cigarette filters apparently reduce the rate of fatal lung cancer among smokers.

But they also have been told by cancer scientists that some of the filters now in use are ineffective, even worthless.

Inventor Robert L. Strickman said he couldn't even get into the offices of major U.S. tobacco companies when he tried to sell his new filter. So, Strickman said, he gave a half-interest to Columbia University. Strickman and Columbia President Grayson Kirk were scheduled to appear today before the Commerce subcommittee investigating progress toward development of safer cigarettes.

A panel of cancer researchers told the subcommittee Wednesday the answer lies in part in filtration. Dr. George E. Moore, New York director of public health research, urged steps to cut the tar level of smoke to 15 milligrams a cigarette.

Under terms of the Strickman-Columbia filter project, cigarettes using the new filter could not have a tar content of more than 10 milligrams.

Columbia reported Wednesday it is negotiating with a dozen tobacco companies for the marketing of the Strickman filter. No company would have exclusive rights to the filter.

Strickman claims his invention could cut the tar and nicotine content of cigarettes by 70 per cent. The filter could be worth $200 million a year if purchased by cigarette manufacturers, he said.

The invention has not been patented and its components have never been revealed.

HELEN HELP US!

by Helen Bottel

YOUTH ASKED FOR IT!

This column is for young people, their problems and pleasures, their troubles and fun. As with the rest of Helen Help Us, it welcomes laughs but won't dodge a serious question with a brush off.

Send your teenage questions to YOUTH ASKED FOR IT, care of Helen Help Us! this newspaper. LETTER FROM A FLOWER CHILD

Dear Helen: This letter contains honesty. It is from a flower child (hippy).

I believe one has the right to any opinion so long as one has the facts straight. But YOU, Helen, don't have a right to an opinion on drugs like marijuana, LSD and "Speed." Why? Because you haven't had the truthful facts. All you hear is prejudiced lies by "straight" reporters.

The non-believers know so little, but they are the first to criticize and condemn. Oh, how sad!

Drugs are not harmful, so forget about that! They are groovy. They speed up pleasure and slow down agony. Just because you take drugs doesn't mean you are trying to escape anything. They help you with your problems.

Anyone who doesn't believe flower children are right, my deepest sympathy to them. Flower children are beautiful. The beauty reminds one of a baby eating applesauce, or playing with a puppy. They are lively, like a daisy on a sunny afternoon. Got anything against beauty or love? Probably so! Everybody is hung up on destruction, hate, war and making money, except us. So we come along with love, and the world tries to condemn us. So sad! If everyone would be happy like us the world would be fantastic to observe. As long as this doesn't happen the world is hopeless and not worth my time.

As a girl of 15, I feel I get married I will never bear a child because it would be a shame to bring another human into this world, all messed up with anti-flower people.

Have you ever taken a trip on any kind of drug, Helen? Of course not — so how can you possibly write about them? There is nothing wrong with taking them. The law is all wrong. Marijuana and LSD are the grooviest. It's just that the after-effects hurt me. — R.D.

Dear R: If the after-effects hurt you now, little 15-year-old, what will they be like five years from now, should you continue with drugs? No one knows for sure, and that's my case against legalizing marijuana — THOUGH I DO think present laws governing it are bad. Until research proves the drug is "safe," I'll stay away from it, thank you!

Moreover, one "trip" wouldn't tune me into your hippie turn-off any more than one cocktail would make me an alcoholic. I can see the point in some of your ideas about peace, love and understanding, but must you cripple yourselves to make it? And must you divide the world into two camps: the drug-users who "love," and the non-drug-users who "take"? You know this isn't true. A lot more understanding from both camps would go a long way toward solving the drug problem. — H.

NOTE TO READERS: An excellent discussion on drugs appeared in the August 8 LOOK MAGAZINE. Everyone should read it! — H.

Dear Helen: My husband and I are young college graduates working toward our Masters Degrees. We take much pride in our work teaching high school students.

We are not hippies or heads, but every now and then we smoke marijuana. Once a month or so we get together with good friends and have a "pot party." We pass the pipe around and share, say Marijuana for six people costs about $1.25.

Nobody ever leaves our house while "high." I've never driven a car while on marijuana, just as I would never drive while drinking. No one has the urge to do "super-human" feats. If you smoke too much, you simply fall asleep, and dream beautiful dreams.

At our get-togethers, we talk a while and then drive off, enjoying private or communal sensations. We listen to music, hearing the same songs differently each time. Or we watch movies on our own eyelids or on the lampshade. There is much ritual involved, and inherent in the ritual is absolute consideration for your friends.

There is absolutely no hangover from marijuana. If anything, you awake with more enthusiasm for your work and your life.

The marijuana "high" lasts an hour or so. I don't come down to disappointing reality, because for me reality is a satisfying life with my husband and children. Pot is only one pleasure in that life, and it is one which I cherish for it hurts no one. Someday I hope to enjoy it without the threat of imprisonment and loss of my job. — CONTRIBUTOR

ING MEMBER OF SOCIETY

Dear Helen: I hope they never legalize pot. The element of danger and secrecy is what gives you the "high." It's mostly psychological. It doesn't lead to "hard" dope unless you're headed there anyway, but it DOES make you want to experiment with LSD and for many, that is very dangerous. LSD and STP can literally drive people crazy, sometimes permanently — JAKE

St. Louis Blanked by Giants

Associated Press Sports Writer
Ron Santo is one of Al McBean's biggest boosters, but flattery still can't get him to first base against the Pittsburgh Pirates' newest starting pitcher, McBean, making only his second start in two years Wednesday night, went the distance for a 2-1 victory over the Chicago Cubs, and protected his slim edge by robbing Santo of a hit with the tying run on third base in the eighth inning.

"He's good and cocky and he gets the job done, which is what counts," Santo says of the Pirate bullpen specialist, who has split two starting decisions with the Cubs this season after working exclusively in relief since August, 1965. "He's as fast as anybody in the league and he almost dares you to hit the ball."

Santo went hitless in his first three at-bats Wednesday night, then challenged McBean in the eighth with two out and Don Kessinger on third. But McBean made a leaping grab of the Chicago slugger's smash through the box and threw him out, ending the Cubs' last threat.

Elsewhere, San Francisco blanked St. Louis' National League leaders 6-0 behind Mike McCormick's five-hitter; Atlanta trounced Houston 9-3; Philadelphia edged the New York Mets 3-2 and Los Angeles pounded Cincinnati 8-0.

In the American League, first-place Chicago trimmed New York 5-2; California smashed Cleveland 16-5; Washington upended Boston 3-2 and Detroit divided a doubleheader with Minnesota, winning 10-0 before losing 4-3.

the way to his fourth victory in seven decisions. Losing pitcher Bill Hands' fifth-inning single delivered the Cubs' run.

Matty Alou singled in the Pirates' first, stole second and scored on a single by Roberto Clemente, Manny Mota's double, an infield hit by Gene Alley and a ground out produced the deciding run in the second.

McCormick rolled to his 17th victory—tops in the league—and beat the Cardinals for the third time without a loss this season, with the help of Willie Mays' 16th homer, a two-run blast in the third.

Orlando Cepeda, the league batting leader, had three of the Cards' five hits off McCormick, 17-6 for the year.

Hank Aaron and Tito Franco each knocked in four runs in Atlanta's comeback victory, which snapped a five-game losing string for the Braves.

Aaron drilled the first of his two two-run doubles in the seventh, sending the Braves ahead 4-3. Franco socked a two-run homer in the first and a two-run single in the Braves' five-run eighth.

The Phillies extended New York's losing skid to seven, longest of the season for the Mets, as Johnny Briggs rapped a two-run homer and Dick Ellisworth combined with reliever Dick Hall to scatter 11 hits.

Southpaw Claude Osteen blanked Cincinnati on three hits for his 15th victory against 11 losses and West Parker drove in three runs with as many singles to pace the Dodgers' attack.

Chicago Edges New York 5-2

By RON RAPPOPORT

It figured that Bob Priddy's first major league complete game would come against Boston. He'd been working up to it for years.

Priddy went the distance for Washington Wednesday night as the Senators downed the Red Sox 3-2 on Paul Casanova's ninth-inning sacrifice fly.

When Priddy was with San Francisco the last few seasons he saw a lot of the Red Sox since both clubs trained in Arizona and met often in exhibition games.

He came to the Senators this season and of his three previous starts, the only winning one was against Boston in June. But he didn't go the distance. So in a doubleheader Tuesday, Priddy charted every pitch to Boston hitters and when his turn came again he was ready.

In other American League games Wednesday night, Chicago beat New York 5-2, Detroit and Minnesota split a doubleheader 10-0 and 3-4, California destroyed Cleveland 16-5 and Baltimore blanked Kansas City 1-0.

In the National League, San Francisco beat St. Louis 6-0, Atlanta crushed Houston 9-3, Pittsburgh stopped Chicago 2-1, Philadelphia dumped New York 3-2 and Los Angeles whipped Cincinnati 8-0.

Boston, now in second place in the hot American League race a game behind Chicago, took an early lead on Carl Yastrzemski's 32nd homer, but Ed Stroud put the Senators ahead with his first major league shot.

The Sox tied it up in the seventh, but Casanova came through after Hank Allen doubled in the ninth and moved to third on an infield out.

Ken Berry hit key singles in a pair of two-run rallies for the White Sox, who made their league lead a little less precarious, but still plenty close. Fred Klages turned in a five-hit pitching job until the seventh and Don McMahon and Bob Locker came in to finish up.

The Tigers and Twins fell into a third-place tie, 1½ games behind the White Sox after the Tigers got four-hit pitching from Joe Sparr and four-hit hitting from Dick Tracewski in the opener.

But the Twins got a homer from Harmon Killebrew that made the difference in the finale.

Rick Reichardt's grand-slam home run was the big blow in the Angels' 25-hit attack, the largest in terms of hits and runs in the league this season. Jim Fregosi had four hits for California.

Pete Richert scattered eight hits among the Kansas City batting order and Frank Robinson's run-scoring single accounted for the game's only score.

Kansas City Players Ask Full Hearing

BALTIMORE (AP) — The Kansas City Athletics, last in the American League, are going right to the top in their smoldering dispute with club owner Charles O. Finley.

Maintaining their solidarity, the A's have voted unanimously to request a formal hearing and investigation by baseball Commissioner William D. Eckert.

As the Athletics headed home today upon completion of a road trip, the request was to be made of Eckert in New York by Marvin J. Miller, executive director of the Major League Baseball Players Association.

Finley and the A's have been openly feuding since the controversial club owner suspended and fined pitcher Lew Krausse last week for an alleged incident aboard an airliner.

"The players feel Finley's actions have been detrimental to baseball and are appealing under a major league agreement that the commissioner can look into any such actions," Miller said Wednesday night.

PLATTSBURGH, N.Y. (AP) — John J. Helmer, an Olympic bobsledder and alternate coach of the United States' bobsled teams for the 1968 Winter Olympics, died Tuesday night in Physician's Hospital. He was 46.

Helmer, who lived here, had been ill for nearly two years.

Charger Owner Sees Error of Bonus Policy

By MURRAY CHASS
Associated Press Sports Writer
ESCONDIDO, Calif. (AP) — To Coach Sid Gillman of the San Diego Chargers, the merger of the American and National Football Leagues might be the greatest thing since the amalgamation of Adam and Eve.

But you can carry a good thing too far, and that is what Gillman possibly has done by scheduling three consecutive exhibition games with National League teams.

"If the merger hadn't come about," Gillman said, "we as a club would have been dead, assuming we followed the same policy."

He referred to the Chargers' policy of not extending lucrative bonuses to college players who also had been drafted by the NFL.

The Chargers failed to sign their high draft choices for two years, and they paid for it last year by skidding from the top of the Western Division to within one spot of the bottom.

Came the merger and the common draft, however, and the Chargers started signing their draft choices again. They also scheduled those three inter-league games with Detroit, Los Angeles and Pittsburgh. No other AFL team scheduled more than two games with the NFL, and none on consecutive weekends.

Now their problem is can they come out of those battles unscathed enough to start the regular season in competitive fashion?

The answer could be no, and it could damage the Chargers' chances to climb back up the ladder.

"We have to go all out in pre-season games," Gillman said, explaining his exhibition philosophy. "We'll settle for nothing less. Any veteran who thinks he can turn it on for the regular season is wrong. You can't turn it on and off like a light switch. You have to turn it on from the start."

The Chargers have quite a bit of experience to turn on.

There are Lance Alworth, the league's premier pass receiver; Paul Lowe, one of the most dangerous runners in the league; John Hadl, the second leading quarterback in 1966; Kenny Graham and Speedy Duncan, two of the top defensive backs, and tackle Ron Mix, the only man to make the All-Star team every year the league has been in existence.

Now in his sixth season, Hadl has not been less than second statistically in passing the past three years.

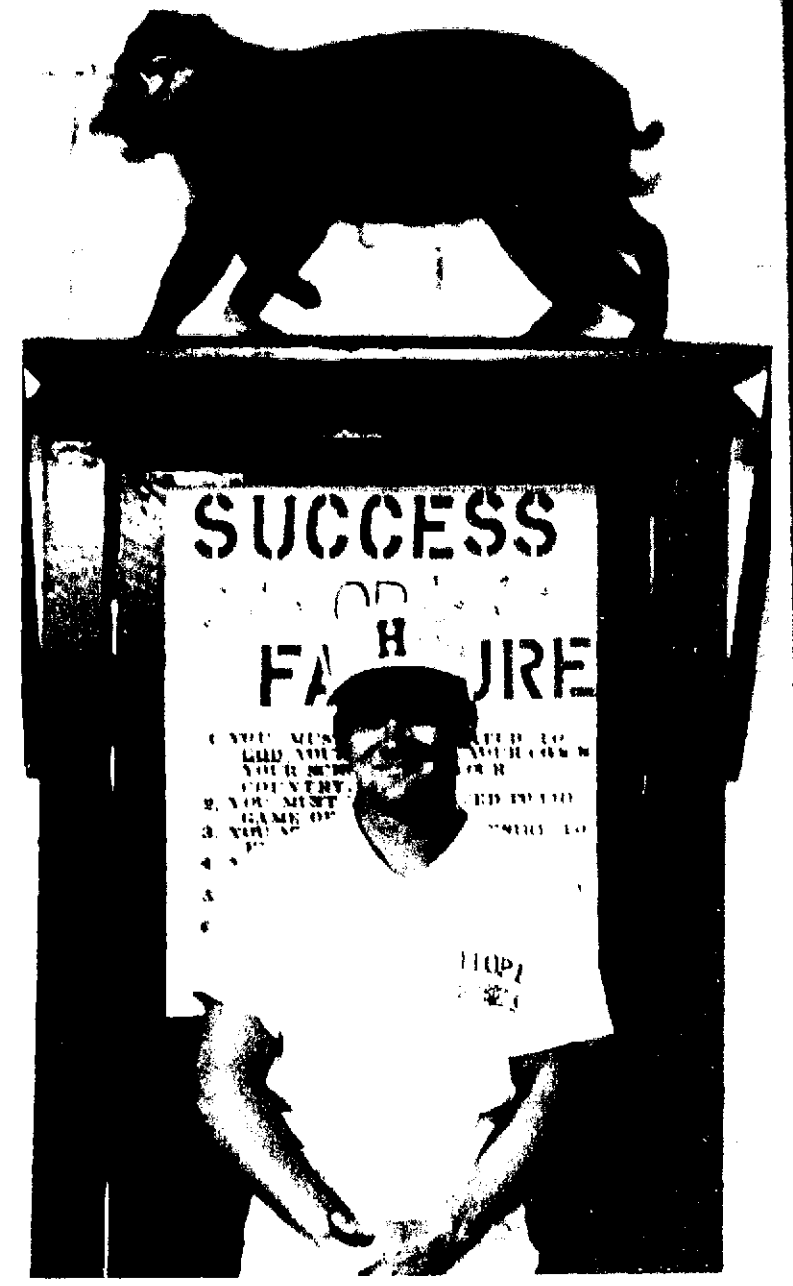

Lowe, on the other hand, dropped off last year to 643 yards rushing from his record-breaking 1,121 the year before. The 30-year-old halfback wants the record back — Boston's Jim Nance broke it last year — and if he even comes close to getting it, San Diego could be trouble.

Joining Alworth on the receiving end of Hadl's passes are split end Gary Garrison and tight end and Jackie MacKinnon. With Mix in the interior offensive line are tackle Ernie Wright, guards Walt Sweeney and Ed Mitchell and center Sam Grunstein.

Defensively, Gillman has bolstered his line by acquiring end Tom Day from Buffalo for Keith Lincoln. He also picked up tackle Scott Appleton and linebacker John Baker from Houston for Miller Farr.

Appleton is fighting holdovers Steve DeLong and George Gross for a job while Baker could break into a starting spot along Entering his first season in the Hope schools, Coach Bill Lawrence will be the assistant in charge of the Bobcat offense.

After graduating from McGee High School in 1962, Coach Lawrence attended Arkansas A&M College, where he was chosen as All-AAC two years as a defensive halfback. Last season he played pro ball in the North American Football League for Savannah, Georgia, in the Atlanta Falcons farm clubs system.

Lawrence, 23, son of Mr. and Mrs. Bill Lawrence of McGee, now lives at 1513 South Elm St. in Hope and is a member of the Methodist Church. He is not married.

with Rick Redman, Frank Buncum or Chuck Allen, who was injured after San Diego jumped to a 4-0 record last season.

"I never did have a good feeling about our team last year, even when we were 4-0," Gillman said.

This year, though, brings a different feeling.

"We have lots of talent, and potentially we have a real fine team," he continued. "We have lots of youth, tremendous interest and we'll have one of the finest defenses we've ever had. If we have some luck, we'll win some games."

Unless they lose them even before the season starts.

AFL: Oakland Raiders

Clem Daniels John Rauch

GENERAL COMMENT—This could be the best collection of young talent in football, but it hasn't had time to tell and it hasn't the real great player to lead it. There's no telling when the stockpiling pays off. Depends a lot on the Lamonica acquisition to play quarterback.

OFFENSE

PASSING—Boss Al Davis has been under Daryle Lamonica several years. The big ex-Bill gives 'em more mobility than Tom Flores, but his accuracy still must be proved. Could be the whole key to '67. Rating—B—

RECEIVING—Giving up Art Powell was a big price to pay in Lamonica deal. Lionel Taylor will help, but he's no long threat. So far Fred Biletnikoff, Larry Todd haven't lived up to scout reports. They're the big hopes. Tight end is securely fastened by tandem of young Tom Mitchell, old Billy Cannon. Rating—B

RUNNING—You'd want no better halfback than Clem Daniels. He does it all. Some day they expect Hewitt Dixon to be in same class as a fullback. For depth, there's Roger Hagberg, Pete Banaszek, with Larry Todd always a possible switch there. The Daniels-Dixon duo ideal on paper. Rating—A—

LINE—Should be coach Johnny Rauch's favorite dream. Already got a guard spot staked out for rookie Gene Upshaw—it only means ousting all-pro Wayne Hawkins. Other guard is excellent soph Jim Harvey. Third-year men Harry Schuh, Bob Svihus are ideally suited physically. For experience, center Jim Otto holds 'em all together. Rating—A

KICKING—Mike Eischeid is joined in battle for placekicking assignment by old George Blanda. Mike's a dual-duty man on the punting end, too. Rating—B+

DEFENSE

LINE—No change at all from last year, and don't particularly need one. Ben Davidson, Ike Lussiter are immense at ends—size-wise, at least. Tom Keating is brightest young defensive lineman in league. Don Birdwell doesn't get much attention, but he's a tough guy to budge. Rating—B+

LINEBACKERS—The one spot on the club where the talent doesn't measure up to the rest. The familiar faces are, left to right, John Williamson, Don Connors, Gus Otto, with Bill Busch in close contention. They're properly young and virile but haven't developed into Grade A unit. Rating—C+

SECONDARY—Potentially brilliant, and plenty of 'em. Corner men Kent McCloughan, Dave Grayson are both All-AFL types. Free safety Roger Bird could be best athlete of all. Warren Powers still holds job at strong safety on experience. In case there's any slack, vets Willie Brown, Hoyte Williams, Dainard Paulson ready for action. They could play for anybody. Rating—A SUMMARY—Raiders are one team with manpower to match defending champs Kansas City. Consistency is quality they've got to establish. They're young and haven't got true feel of winning, from coaching staff on down. A good early start is vital to acquire confidence. PREDICTION—First in West.

Fgn. Teams Could Meet for LL Title

WILLIAMSPORT, Pa. (AP) — The possibility of two foreign teams meeting for the Little League World Championship loomed today for the first time in the 21-year history of the tournament for baseball's small fry.

When Linares, Mexico, rallied with two out in the last inning Wednesday to edge Northridge, Calif., 1-0, it set up two foreign teams in the semifinals for the first time since the Little League World Series began here in 1947.

West Tokyo, Japan, beat East Trail, B.C., 3-0, Tuesday on a last-inning home run by pitcher Masahiro Miyahara.

Upholding the honor of the United States in today's pair of semifinal games (2 p.m. and 5 p.m.) are Newtown — Edmont, Pa., which meets Tokyo in the opener, and North Roseland, Chicago, North Roseland won Wednesday over the U.S. Naval Station, Rota, Spain, on a 1-0, no-hitter by 12-year-old Bob Stratta—the eighth no-hit, no-run game in series history.

The championship game is scheduled for 2 p.m. Saturday, and only twice has the title left the country — in 1957 and again in 1958 when Monterey, Mexico, took it.

Wednesday's Stars
By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
BATTING—Rick Reichardt, Angels, smashed three hits, including a grand slam homer, and drove in five runs in a 16-5 romp over Cleveland.

PITCHING—Mike McCormick, Giants, blanked St. Louis' National League pace-setters 6-0 on a five-hitter to become the league's first 17-game winner.

Auto Union in Defiance of Leaders

By A. F. MAHAN
DETROIT (AP) — Union and company negotiators pondered today the portent of a demonstration Wednesday by hundreds of skilled tradesmen in defiance of the leadership of their United Auto Workers union.

The demonstration at Ford Motor Co. emphasized an often-asked question: Whether the union can win a sufficiently high wage increase to keep skilled tradesmen from vetoing any new contract at either Ford, General Motors or Chrysler.

Under a 1966 change in its constitution, the UAW permits skilled and production workers to vote separately on contract ratification, and approval of both is required.

Chanting, "One, two, three, four—we want a dollar more," the tradesmen ended more than five hours of demonstrating by storming up and down the entrance ramp past front doors of Ford headquarters and snarling traffic, then dispersed quickly.

Many carried placards supporting a previously announced goal of skilled tradesmen to win a $1-an-hour increase yearly over the life of any new contract with the Big Three automakers.

Other placards left no doubt the aim was to put pressure on UAW officials as well as that of the companies.

UAW demands, laid on bargaining tables when new contract negotiations began more than six weeks ago, call for a "substantial" wage boost for all and a "substantial" extra amount for skilled tradesmen.

Production workers outnumber skilled tradesmen by about 7 to 1 in the UAW's 650,000 workers at Big Three plants. The tradesmen—millwrights, electricians and the like—have complained their wages haven't kept pace with similar workers outside the auto industry.

UAW negotiators at General Motors, Ford and Chrysler had urged that the demonstration be called off, terming it "ill advised and ill timed." UAW President Walter P. Reuther said he agreed.

Firm Offers to Buy Back All Stock Sold

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — The Continental Securities Corp. of Little Rock issued a rescission offer Wednesday for $100,000 worth of its stock purchased since April 1 in accordance with an order by state Securities Director Don S. Smith.

Smith ordered that the firm issue the rescission offer after halting the firm's $100,000 stock sales promotion. The rescission offer lasts 15 days from Wednesday.

Continental had entered into an agreement with Burch Inc. of Little Rock April 1 in which Burch was reportedly paid $10,000 to help with the sale of Continental stock. The incorporation papers for the Burch firm were filed April 10.

Burch's stockholders include several persons in the administration of Gov. Winthrop Rockefeller.

O. Wade Walls, president of Continental, said that the firm's failure to disclose the agreement with Burch in its prospectus was the basis for the rescission offer. Walls said Burch gave back the $10,000 and the sale agreement was terminated July 1.

Phillip E. Allen of Little Rock, Continental's attorney, said the firm had sold about $128,000 of stock since April 1. He said stockholders in Burch had bought about $28,000 worth of stock and that the offer to rescind does include the Burch stockholders.

Stockholders in Burch include Dotson Collins, state Labor Commissioner; Erwin Barger, an administrative aide to Rockefeller; Robert Boggan, director of the state Veterans Service office; Ivy C. Johnson, director of the state Surplus Commodities Division; Jerry K. Thomason, director of the state Assessment Co-ordination Department; Gene Talbert state Civil Defense Director and Jim Raney, hearing officers for the state Board of Review.

Allen regarded the violation as "technical." He said the agreement with Burch was not an effort to "misrepresent anything to anyone."

Pilots Escape in Landing

HOT SPRINGS, Ark. (AP)—The two pilots of an Air Force F4C Phantom jet escaped injury here Wednesday when the nose gear of the plane collapsed while making an emergency landing.

Capt. R. E. Francis, one of the pilots, said the plane was running low on fuel and was forced to land at Hot Springs. The other pilot was identified as 1st Lt. R. J. McDonald.

A spokesman from the Little Rock Air Force Base said the plane was involved in a flight test concerned with low level flights.

Fines Permit Violators

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — U.S. Commissioner John E. Coates at Little Rock has fined nine persons $10 apiece, the first persons to be fined in the state for violating the Land and Water Conservation Fund Act of 1965.

The act requires a person to buy a permit to use federal recreation areas on Army Engineers reservoirs. The permits cost $7 a year or lesser amounts for shorter periods.

Commissioner Coates fined two other persons $1 each, the price of a one-day permit. One said he had driven into an area to pick up someone and one said he didn't find the ticket placed on his car by a reservoir ranger.

Commissioner Coates has heard 25 cases so far. He dismissed 14 of them.

Farmer Gets Back $5,519 Quota Penalty

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — Federal Judge Oren Harris has ordered that the Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Service refund a $5,519 marketing quota penalty paid by Bill Lindsey and Charles Lamont Lindsey, brothers who farm as a partnership near Caldwell in St. Francis County.

The brothers paid the penalty after being told they had overplanted their acreage. The penalty was based on a measurement of their cotton acreage in early November 1964 when almost all the cotton crop had been harvested. They had been told on Sept. 4 of that year that they were in compliance with their allotment.

Judge Harris said there was no contention of fraud or misrepresentation.

The St. Francis County ASCS Committee assessed the penalty, contending that the brothers had overplanted their 567-acre allotment by 49 acres.

"The government admits that the alleged incorrect notice was the result of an error made by the compliance reporter or by other employees of the county and state offices," Judge Harris said. "The government admits that neither the farm operator nor any producer on the farm was in any way responsible for the error."

Judge Harris did not rule whether the brothers were overplanted.

225 Vital Targets Hit by Bombers

By BOB HORTON
AP Military Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — The Pentagon disclosed that American planes have bombed more than 225 key military targets in sensitive areas of North Vietnam during the 2½-year air campaign.

Many of these have been authorized personally by President Johnson, acting on recommendations from the Joint Chiefs of Staff. The President, it is understood, has approved the great bulk of more than 300-plus targets sent by the military leaders for his okay.

The Joint Chiefs laid out these targets for the President's consideration because they were situated in populated zones where civilian casualties might be heavy, near Red China's border where dangerous overflights might occur, or in major ports where Soviet ships might be damaged.

North Vietnam reportedly has some 18,000 potential targets. Of these, 5,000 are said to be worth hitting and the great majority have been struck at the time and choosing of Adm. U.S. Grant Sharpe, Pacific commander-in-chief.

The White House came under severe criticism in recent weeks, particularly from House Republican Leader Gerald R. Ford of Michigan, for what was said to be overly tight restrictions on the bombing.

In the past month the administration has expanded the approved target list to allow strikes within 10 miles of China's border and has given military leaders greater leeway in bombing in and around the capital city of Hanoi.

Defense officials insisted last week the loosening up in bombing was a logical evolution of the air campaign and not a result of Ford's criticism.

In response to questions, the Pentagon provided a breakdown of the types of key targets which have been attacked by Air Force, Navy and Marine aircraft since the bombing began in February 1965. These include:

- More than 50 barracks, more than 50 bridges and more than 50 surface-to-air missile sites.
- More than 20 supply depots.
- More than 15 Army depots.
- More than 10 petroleum, oil and lubricants storage sites, more than 10 power plants and more than 10 ferries.
- More than five maritime ports and more than five air fields.

In addition, the Pentagon said, there have been numbers of raids against railroad yards and shops, munitions plants, iron and steel factories, cement plants, naval bases, communications installations and radar sites.

Because of North Vietnam's ability to snap back with quick repairs or replacements, most targets require continual assaults.

Capt. James Cook, noted explorer, was killed by a native Hawaiian.

Most Damage Is Done by Youngsters

By AUSTIN SCOTT
Associated Press Writer
NEW YORK (AP) — H. Rap Brown, angry, volatile, and only 23, drew himself up to his full, imposing six-foot-plus and showered his Cambridge, Md., audience with bitter words.

"If this town don't come around, this town should be burnt down," he shouted. Less than 24 hours later, four square blocks of the small city had been reduced to scorched rubble, and National Guardsmen patrolled the streets.

In Detroit, a middle-aged Negro housewife looked from her front porch past 12 fire-blackened chimneys where homes for her neighbors had stood. She wondered aloud how the Negro teenagers gathering on what was left of 12th Street—youngsters the same age as her two daughters—could call the destruction "beautiful."

A Negro policeman in Brooklyn, N.Y., glanced around a main intersection at the plywood-fronted stores that testified to nighttime violence and recalled what had impressed him:

"I saw a lot of people who were angry that night," he said. "All under 14."

Why should these youngsters, born into an era of concern over civil rights unmatched in the past century, be angry?

"I wish I knew," the policeman said. "We try every way we know to reach them. We even bought them 25 mats so they could practice karate. But we don't reach them. They use us when they need us."

Scenes like this, together with countless others less violent, pointed up in recent weeks what some observers say is a new mood among young Negroes in the big city slums.

As violence spread last month to cities of all sizes across the nation in a pattern no one could predict, the big question was whether the angry young Negroes who dominated television screens and headlines really touched responsive chords in large numbers of their friends and neighbors.

The question can be answered definitively only as time passes, for the mood on the streets of Harlem and Hough, in the alleys of Detroit and Los Angeles, is constantly changing. But there are signs that unless enormous changes in slum conditions come quickly, the answer will be yes.

The bitter language of Rap Brown would have been dismissed five years ago, even in Harlem, as the inflammatory street-corner preaching of an extremist.

But his name drew applause last month at a Black Power conference attended for the most part by moderates and militants who were both well educated and well-off financially.

"I hope you don't expect me to rap Rap," a part Harlem girl of 18 told a reporter. "He's kinda crazy—but it's a feel-good crazy."

The mood extends into Negro colleges where administrators report black nationalist blocs, dormant since the days of Marcus Garvey in the 1920's, are growing.

ing the amendment by Rep. E. Ross Adair, R-Ind.

The action is subject to possible reversal on a roll call after the amendment process is completed, probably late today.

Leaders hope to complete action on the bill, the last important measure scheduled for House consideration before the 10-day Labor Day recess starting next Thursday.

The House committee only cut the administration's $3.4 billion aid request by $219 million, while the Senate Foreign Relations Committee whacked off $737 million and the full Senate trimmed another $100 million.

The Senate, however, cut the administration's $596 million military aid request to $391 million, while the House committee gave the administration everything it wanted, plus an additional $54 million for North Atlantic Treaty Organization housekeeping costs.

TV School for Golfers Suggested

RYE, N.Y. (AP) — Gene Sarazen, never at a loss for an idea, suggested today a charm school for tournament golfers to improve their television image.

"It has to come," the 65-year-old Germantown, N.Y., squire said, perhaps hiding a tongue in his cheek. "With all the TV exposure these days, the players are more actors than athletes."

"They worry about what they wear. They are concerned over whether they look too fat or sloppy on the screens. They're always on stage."

"Some enterprising business man could make a fortune teaching the boys how to dress and how to act and react before the cameras."

Sarazen is one of the 156 pros teeing off today in the $250,000 Westchester Classic here.

"They've all become performers," he said. "Arnie Palmer with his glove dangling from his hip pocket and his grimaces and smiles; Jack Nicklaus, with his big smile and good guy image; Doug Sanders, with his varied costumes at Gary Player, the little man in black."

Bastinado, prescribed by the Code of Hammurabi, was the Oriental punishment of beating an offender on the soles of his feet.

Chancellor Appointed

HOT SPRINGS, Ark. (AP)—Virgil Evans, 75, of Hot Springs, was appointed chancellor of the Third Chancery District Wednesday by Gov. Winthrop Rockefeller.

The vacancy was created when Judge Samuel W. Garrett died July 20. Evans, a life-long Democrat, cannot run for reelection in 1968 since he is not eligible to succeed himself.

Garland and Montgomery counties are included in the Third District.

Canadians to Ignore DeGaulle

OTTAWA (AP)—Canadian Prime Minister Lester B. Pearson kept cool Wednesday despite a new overture to French-speaking Quebec from French President Charles de Gaulle.

The French Cabinet announced it would accelerate its cultural and technical aid to Quebec "to help the French of Canada in their effort to maintain and develop their personality."

Speculation that the move would worsen Canadian-French relations diminished when Pearson told a news conference: "The report I have seen doesn't disturb me."

The French announcement brought no repetition of the indignant outcry in Canada's English-speaking provinces which greeted De Gaulle's espousal of the French-Canadian separatist cause during his visit to Montreal last month.

Speaking at a public rally then, De Gaulle cried, "Long live free Quebec!"—the slogan of the minority that wants to separate the French-speaking province from Canada.

Insurance Order to Be Tested

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — Further legal action will probably be needed before it is determined whether a suspension order issued Wednesday by state Insurance Commissioner John Norman Harkey is valid.

Harkey ordered the Savings Guaranty Corp. of Booneville to suspend its surety business with Arkansas Loan & Thrift Corp. of Van Buren.

A temporary injunction against Harkey was issued by R. Eugene Bailey, serving as special chancery judge, after Savings Guaranty Corp. filed a suit in Pulaski Chancery Court. The injunction was issued in an attempt to prevent Harkey from issuing the suspension order.

Both Harkey's order and the injunction were issued about the same time Wednesday although the injunction was dated Aug. 22.

Harkey said Loan & Thrift's dealings with Savings Guaranty, in effect, allowed the Van Buren firm to insure its own loans.

Harkey said that the firm's "so-called surety contract and sales materials... as it relates to Savings Guaranty Corp., becomes merely a sales gimmick which is used in order to obtain or induce business for Arkansas Loan & Thrift Corp."

TV Takes a Look at Africa

By JOAN CROSSY
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

NEW YORK (NEA)—It's called Africa, which is simple enough. But right after the title things get complicated.

ABC-TV wants to call attention to itself in a prestigious manner. One network (NBC) has already done two 3½-hour programs, one about civil rights and the other about organized crime. Another network (CBS) has devoted an hour on four successive nights to a look at the findings of the Warren Commission. So what's left?

Well, you take one continent, and you take four hours, all your prime time for the evening, and you spend a lot of money, $2 million. The result is Africa, which will be telecast by ABC-TV from 7-11 (EDT) on Sunday, Sept. 10.

James Fleming is the executive producer of this exceedingly ambitious project and it's a tribute to him that he has managed to stay outwardly calm and low-keyed.

Filming on the show, which hopes to explore all facets of the troubled continent, from its sports through its entertainment to its politics, began last May.

"We never had fewer than six camera crews there and sometimes we had as many as nine," Fleming said. "Since July, we have had 10 film editors working full time. We have filmed the continent so extensively we could probably be on every night of the year."

Fleming is not alarmed about an overabundance of material. "I have done shows that lasted an hour and we have really only had 45 minutes of material. I'm sure you've seen them. So it's nice to have an option with film."

JAMES FLEMING, the executive producer of ABC-TV's $2-million look at Africa, spent a lot of time in surroundings like these readying the show for its Sept. 10 airing.

During the past several months, Fleming has made five round trips to Africa. "One week I spent a total of 60 hours in the air," he says with a sigh.

Before Fleming and his group began filming the show, they had a series of seminars. "We spent nearly three weeks just asking ourselves every question about Africa we could think of. The next step was breaking down our timetable. Logistically we were quite well-organized. We visited 39 different countries, and we were running, in effect, a foreign office."

Gregory Peck was approached to do the narration and turned Fleming down, saying he never did commercial television. "We asked him to look at some of the film we had. We showed him two of four reels we had ready and he said, 'I'll do it.' Peck's son, Jonathan, who is teaching English for the Peace Corps in Tanzania, is also in the show. Not because he is Peck's son but because he is very articulate and has many valid observations to make."

In order to make things

HOPE (ARK) STAR, Printed by Offset

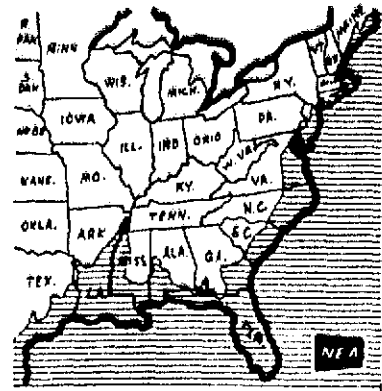

easier for viewers, who may not want or be able to be tied down for a four-hour stretch, the network will issue times for the various segments of the programs. In essence, it will be a series of shows, all tied together by one theme—the continent of Africa.

"There have been moments of utter despair," Fleming said. "South Africa told us we couldn't film there. We have had cases of polio and malaria among the crew and Jeep accidents. When an African says 'yes,' it may mean 'yes' but it could also mean 'no.' Jomo Kenyatta, Kenya's premier, couldn't care less about being on American television. It took us eight months to convince him to appear."

"But," Fleming said with a smile, "the trouble is you can get very involved with Africa. It engages you. You have to go back. We've been at a point for several months where we are all working seven days a week. But every one of us feels this has been the best year of our television life, and an experience that will never happen again."

British Columbia is Canada's third largest province.

Spareribs Get Apple Juice Marinade

By GAYNOR MADDOX
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

For the Labor Day cook-out, or for anytime you want to grill something different, try this recipe for pork spareribs with an apple juice, brown sugar, garlic and spice marinade.

SPICY SPARERIBS

- 3 to 4 pounds spareribs
- 1 teaspoon brown sugar
- 1 teaspoon salt
- ¼ teaspoon ground cinnamon
- 1 cup apple juice
- ¼ cup oil
- 1 clove garlic, minced
- 6 whole cloves

Cut spareribs into 3- or 4-rib servings. Combine brown sugar, salt and cinnamon. Add apple juice, oil, garlic and cloves. Mix well. Pour marinade over ribs and marinate 3 to 4 hours, turning once during marinating.

SPARERIBS in apple juice marinade.

Drain and reserve marinade. To cook in oven: Place spareribs, bone side down, on a rack in an open roasting pan. Bake in a slow oven (325 degrees) 1 hour. Brush with marinade and bake 30 minutes. Turn ribs and brush with marinade. Bake 15 minutes, brush and continue baking 15 minutes. 4 to 6 servings. To cook on grill: Place spareribs on grill 5 inches from heat. Cook slowly, about 2 hours or until meat is done. Brush ribs with marinade during last half hour.

Cookie-Jar Treats

If you have adventurous youngsters in your home, you'll certainly want to keep a well-stocked cookie jar all year round. Oatmeal cookies are a proven favorite for good munching. It's amazingly easy to make plenty of goodies when you use Chiffon soft-type margarine containing liquid safflower oil. The delicate texture and flavor assures marvelous baking results. And it's always ready to use — no need for creaming or waiting for it to soften at room temperature. To make Huck Finn Oatmeal Cookies you simply mix all the ingredients until well blended and the cookies are ready for baking.

The soft margarine recommended in this recipe contains a high percentage of pure liquid safflower oil which means it is lower in saturated fats than any other spread on the market, including the corn oil ones.

- Huck Finn Oatmeal Cookies
- 1 tub (1 cup) soft-type margarine containing liquid safflower oil
 - 2 cups firmly packed brown sugar
 - 2 eggs
 - 1 teaspoon vanilla
 - 1½ cups unsifted all-purpose flour
 - 1 teaspoon soda
 - 1 teaspoon cinnamon
 - ½ teaspoon salt
 - 3 cups quick-cooking oats
 - 1 cup raisins or chopped nuts

Measure all ingredients into mixing bowl. Beat at low speed of electric mixer or mix by hand until well blended. Drop by heaping teaspoons 2 inches apart on ungreased baking sheet. Bake in 350° F oven 12 to 15 minutes. Remove immediately from baking sheet and cool.

YIELD: 3 to 4 dozen cookies.

It's Simply 'Yes'
or 'No' on Hope's
Paving Proposal

For whatever it is worth The Star adds its endorsement to the street-paving program on which a popular vote will be expedited, probably by mid-October, according to yesterday's announcement by the City of Hope.

We endorsed the project when it was first disclosed, and repeat that endorsement how despite some recent opposition. The opposition first appeared following publication of the project map.

Many people like myself had visualized a program covering virtually all the streets in town. But if we imagined this could be done all at once we grossly underestimated the cost.

What the city government has come up with makes financial sense. It will start off with an artery system of eight major streets carrying the heaviest traffic flow from north to south and east to west. This was first brought out by the map's publication—and some howls were heard.

But if you want good street-paving you've got to make a start. You can't do it all at once, and it is reasonable to assume that improvement of other streets will follow the arterial system as finances allow.

The problem calls for clear thinking and patience by the taxpayers and voters. Arkansas' system of paved highways now connecting every county seat wasn't achieved all at once. It was the product of a sound plan which extended the pavement decade by decade. But the result you see today would never have been accomplished if there hadn't been a bold start with just a few arterial roads.

The issue in October's street-paving referendum is simply "Do we start?" Yes or No.

The city government is putting the question up to the people, and if they vote "No" then the people will have precious little room to grumble over the sad state of Hope's streets.

It's all local money—federal aid having been excluded, which means that construction costs will be reduced by the absence of federal interference. And the tax burden seems fairly distributed—a 5-mill tax on city property, plus a $5 license charge against automobile-owners.

It looks like a fair deal, and this newspaper will back the project until the last vote is counted.

Commission Okays Turnpike Study Funds

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — State Highway Director Ward Goodman said Wednesday after the Highway Commission ratified an agreement advancing funds to the Turnpike Authority, that he would notify Wilbur Smith & Associates of New Haven, Conn., to begin feasibility studies of possible toll road corridors.

About 1,200 miles of turnpike routes will be studied by the firm. The Highway Commission advanced the Turnpike Authority $100,000 to finance the studies.

The Turnpike Authority had asked the commission to agree to advance studies of western and central routes but the commission refused and each route will be studied in the same manner.

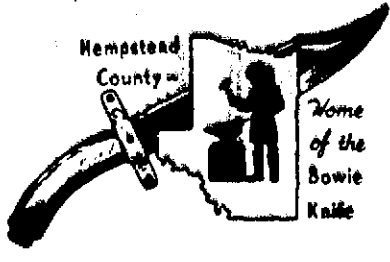

Goodman said the studies were to be completed in six months.

Forrest City Workers to Vote on Union

The National Labor Relations Board at Memphis will conduct the decertification election.

Foreign Aid Bill Suffers a Setback

WASHINGTON (AP) — Administration leaders in the House hope to rally their forces after suffering an initial setback in voting on the foreign aid bill.

Attempts to cut the $2.5 billion economic assistance portion of the aid bill were scheduled today after Republicans and Southern Democrats succeeded Wednesday in limiting the program to one year.

The House Foreign Affairs Committee had voted to authorize the aid program for two years, approving $3.1 billion for the current fiscal year and adding nearly $3.6 billion for fiscal 1969.

But the House, by a nonrecord vote of 129 to 116, eliminated the second year from the bill Wednesday as the final voting started after three days of debate.

Although many Southerners left the floor before the vote, about 20 joined the almost solid rank of Republicans in support. See FOREIGN AID On Page 5

Here's Your Chance to Get a Painless Five Minute Sanity Test

By HAL BOYLE
NEW YORK (AP) — And what is your problem, sir?

Oh, I see. The world is so crazy and mixed up today that you are beginning to wonder whether you're really normal yourself?

Well, sir, a lot of people are in the same plight. In itself it's a pretty encouraging sign. But, just to be sure, would you like to take our painless five-minute sanity test?

Good. It's quite simple. Just lie down, close your eyes, and consider how you would answer the following questions:

When you have to listen to a long, dull after-dinner speech, do you find your mind wandering off and starting to think about money or sex?

Do you think that if you were just wealthy enough you could get any girl in the world to fall in love with you?

Does it sometimes annoy you that the guy next door to you not only has a newer car and bigger power lawnmower than you but also a better-looking wife?

Now and then, are you swept by a feeling of uncertainty because the hippies you see, even though they spend their lives laughing, scratching themselves and smelling flowers, seem to be having more fun than you are?

When you rake up the first leaves of autumn, does a wind immediately spring up and blow the leaves from your neighbor's yard into your yard?

Do you have a disgruntled feeling that "somebody up there" must be mad at you, because nobody seems to have the woe that you have?

If you and three friends went

Youths Go on Rape, Shooting Spree, 3 Persons Are Killed

SONORA, Calif. (AP) — Two shoeless, denim-clad youths—accused of a one-day shooting spree through three states that resulted in three killings—faced more criminal charges as a fourth victim continued her battle for life.

Thomas Eugene Braun and Leonard Maine, both 18 and from Ritzville, Wash., at first declined, then agreed to have court-appointed attorneys during their arraignment Wednesday before Judge T. Wesley Osborne in Groveland Judicial District Court.

They were bound over for preliminary hearing Aug. 29 on charges of attempted murder in the shooting of 17-year-old Susan Diane Bartolomei of Ukiah, Calif., four times. She was found on a mountain road 30 miles southeast of this Sierra foothill community Tuesday morning.

Miss Bartolomei—still unconscious and in critical condition but holding her own at Community Hospital—lapsed into a coma after gasping words about being kidnapped by two youths in a green car from Oregon, which led to the capture of Braun and Maine.

Surgeons probed for five hours but were unable to remove a bullet from her brain. They were successful in retrieving one from a lung.

If she improves, the Washington youths are expected to be returned to Ukiah, 200 miles northwest, to face charges of murder in the slaying of her 17-year-old boy friend, Timothy Luce, on Monday.

Luce, son of Lake County Dist. Atty. Dave Luce, was shot in the back of the head and dumped in a Hopland vineyard south of Ukiah, 200 miles to the East. Rape and kidnap complaints also have been filed against the pair at Ukiah.

Braun and Maine also are wanted on charges of killing Deanna Buse, 22 of Monroe, Wash., about 20 miles north of Seattle on Saturday, and Samuel Ledgerwood, 57, Portland, Ore., salesman, on an Oregon logging road Sunday.

Bodies of Mrs. Buse and Ledgerwood were found Tuesday night and early Wednesday using information obtained in a telephone interrogation of the pair by out-of-state officers.

Investigators said rape and car theft appeared to be the only motives in the crimes.

Four Injured in Accident at Third & Hervey

Four persons were injured in a two-car collision Thursday morning at Third and Hervey Streets. None were believed in serious condition.

City Officers said an auto driven by Elisha Walker, 66, Negro resident of McCaskill pulled on Highway 67 from Hervey Street and collided with a car driven by Gerald Wayne McLelland, 24, of Prescott.

Thelma L. Stewart, 43, McCaskill, sustained a chest injury and Debbie Ann Stewart, 3, had a head injury. Both were passengers in the Walker car and both were treated at a local hospital.

McLelland sustained a knee injury and a passenger in his car, Scott Whitlock, Texarkana, suffered a head injury.

Investigating City Officers Johnson, Milam and Long charged Walker with failure to yield the right-of-way.

U.S. Taxpayers Pay $1 Million Week to Help Cuban Exiles Furor Over Attack on Poverty Bill

By JOE HALL
WASHINGTON (AP) — A secret Johnson administration memorandum attacking sharply the $5.2 billion antipoverty bill drafted by a Senate Labor subcommittee is causing a furor among Labor Committee Democrats.

The memorandum demands: —Removal of a special $3 billion emergency job program for slum dwellers attached to the bill by subcommittee Chairman Joseph S. Clark, D-Pa.

—Detention of a requirement that the Office of Economic Opportunity disclose the projected five-year cost of the antipoverty program. The memo said "this would create political problems for the administration in an election year."

—Scrapping of a special $105 million item to finance a slum job program backed by Sens. Robert F. Kennedy, D-N.Y., and Jacob K. Javits, R-N.Y. The memo said "this will invite slashing amendments on the floor and will seriously affect passage of the legislation."

The memo said Johnson particularly was exercised about the subcommittee revisions because "the President has spent more time on the language in this bill personally than he has on any other domestic legislation that has been sent to the Congress this year."

The memo was discussed at a See FUROR OVER On Page 2

By THEODORE A. EDIGER
MIAMI, Fla. (AP) — U.S. taxpayers are paying more than $1 million each week to help a seemingly endless stream of Cuban refugees start life anew in this country.

Total expenditures in the program have climbed to hundreds of millions of dollars, officials say.

A Cuban Refugee Center spokesman called it "one of the finest investments in humanitarianism." He said the migration is the most extended in U.S. history.

The number of Cuban exiles who have reached the United States since Fidel Castro's takeover in 1959 is estimated at nearly 400,000. About half live in Miami, the rest are scattered throughout the United States.

Some 80,000 Cubans have arrived by daily airlift established Dec. 1, 1965. Two plane loads of refugees come each weekday. Each flight costs U.S. taxpayers $850.

And thousands of Cubans have sneaked out of their country by boat and headed across "death corridor," as exiles call the waters between the Communist island and Florida. The Coast Guard reported it has rescued 13,450 refugees in these straits. The number rescued ranged from nine in 1959 to 5,730 in 1965.

This year's appropriations for the refugee center, operated by the Health, Education and Welfare Department, total $51 million. This compares with $1 million daily the Soviet Union reportedly spends to maintain the regime from which the refugees flee. Since its establishment in 1961, refugee center expenditures are estimated at $300 million. In addition, the refugee situation has meant expenditure of other millions by the Coast Guard, Immigration Service, customs, law-enforcement bodies and other agencies. Maintenance of a State Department Cuban affairs office here costs $60,000 annually.

The refugee center, which previously spent large sums on supporting refugees in Miami, has shifted emphasis on their resettlement to other cities where they can find employment. Only 14,000, considered unemployable, remain on Florida welfare rolls, as against a 70,000 peak in 1962.

Crossett Shop Is Robbed

CROSSETT, Ark. (AP) — Crossett authorities said the Minit Shop, a drive-in grocery in Crossett, was robbed of about $2,300 by either three or four persons Wednesday night.

Officers said one man and two men entered the store and that one of the trio went behind the counter while the other two distracted the clerks. Police said they thought another man was outside the store.

Rex Dodson, owner of the store, said about $690 worth of cash and more than $1,600 in payroll checks was taken.

Youth Killed Near Abbott

GREENWOOD, Ark. (AP) — David Louis Barrow, 19, of Waldron was killed Wednesday morning in a two-vehicle collision three-fourths of a mile south of Abbott in Ouachita County.

State Police said the accident occurred on U.S. 71. Abbott is about 15 miles south of here. Officers said Barrow's car crossed the center line and collided with a truck driven by Ernest Lee Bowden, 30, of Muldrow, Okla. Bowden was not believed to have been seriously injured.

Arnold to Head Livestock Show

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — E.M. Arnold, president of the Arkansas Livestock Show Association, announced Wednesday that Vernon Magness of Hot Springs would become general manager of the Arkansas Livestock Exposition after the close of the 1967 Exposition Oct. 8.

Magness, 47, will succeed Clyde E. Byrd, general manager of the Exposition since 1939. Magness will report for fulltime duty Sept. 10.

Arnold said Byrd had expressed a desire to retire because of his health.

Magness owns and operates a retail feed and seed store in Malvern and has been sales manager for feed manufacturers for several years.

DE QUEEN, Ark. (AP) — The body of a 12-year-old girl who had been missing since Aug. 15 was discovered Wednesday night in a dry creek bed in a wooded area about nine miles north of here.

Sheriff Louie Hilton of Sevier County said Winston Randolph Blair, 19, of Wickes (Polk County) led him to the body of Sue Vann, who disappeared after setting out from her home at nearby Gilliam for a friend's house.

Cause of death was not determined. A Sevier county coroner's jury ordered her body sent to Little Rock for autopsy. Hilton said that Blair, who is being held at Texarkana, Ark., on charges of armed robbery and assault with intent to kill, had told him that he knew nothing about the girl's disappearance but that he knew where her body was.

The sheriff said Blair was questioned when residents reported seeing him in the area the day the girl disappeared. The girl, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Coleman Vann, was the object of a widespread search after she failed to arrive at her friend's house. The chubby blonde had her dog with her and it later showed up at a store that she would have had to pass.

Hilton said searchers had passed within 50 yards of the body in the densely wooded area in western Arkansas. Her brother, who recently was decorated in Vietnam, returned home to aid in the search.

Gilliam residents and others collected about $2,000 that they offered for the return of the girl.

Blair was charged in the $34 robbery and shooting Monday of Mr. and Mrs. Dave W. Cotman of Texarkana. Cotman, 74, was hospitalized in critical condition and his wife, 56, was in satisfactory condition.

12 American Planes Lost in a Week

By GEORGE MCARTHUR
SAIGON (AP) — U.S. losses this week in the air war against North Vietnam rose to 12 planes and 18 fliers Wednesday as Communist MIGs and ground batteries downed six more American jets, the U.S. Command announced.

American pilots shot down two Communist MIGs in the fourth straight day of raids into the heavily defended Communist heartland around Hanoi. A third MIG was hit and probably downed, the U.S. Command said.

One flier was rescued and 10 were missing. On Monday, when six other American planes were downed, the command said, two fliers were rescued and eight were listed as missing.

Returning pilots reported spectacular destruction in choked rail yards around Hanoi.

Although the ground war remained generally quiet, Communist terror and sabotage was on the rise. Military authorities reported a train blown from the tracks near Saigon and two buses blown up by mines near Hue. The explosions killed 12 civilians and wounded eight.

The U.S. Command reported 108 Americans died in combat last week and 893 were wounded compared with 82 killed, 748 wounded and nine missing the week before.

Communist losses also increased, from 1,328 killed to 1,498, while South Vietnamese casualties were 172 dead, 538 wounded and five missing, less than the previous week's total of 283 killed, 663 wounded and 62 missing.

The continued heavy raids against the Hanoi area reflected the U.S. Command's determination to pound North Vietnam as hard as possible while favorable weather continues. However, the mounting raids have brought the North Vietnamese air force out in strength, and Red ground gunners are sending up blanket barrages of conventional fire and Soviet-built missiles.

DE QUEEN, Ark. (AP) — The body of a 12-year-old girl who had been missing since Aug. 15 was discovered Wednesday night in a dry creek bed in a wooded area about nine miles north of here.

Sheriff Louie Hilton of Sevier County said Winston Randolph Blair, 19, of Wickes (Polk County) led him to the body of Sue Vann, who disappeared after setting out from her home at nearby Gilliam for a friend's house.

Cause of death was not determined. A Sevier county coroner's jury ordered her body sent to Little Rock for autopsy. No Give in China-British Relations

By LAWRENCE MALKIN
LONDON (AP) — Diplomatic relations between Britain and Red China have degenerated into a series of mutual stone-walling sessions, with the two governments waging a war of nerves over their most immediate mutual interest—the future of Hong Kong.

The two envoys bearing the brunt of this are Britain's charge d'affaires in Peking, Donald C. Hopson, and Shen Ping, the Chinese charge in London.

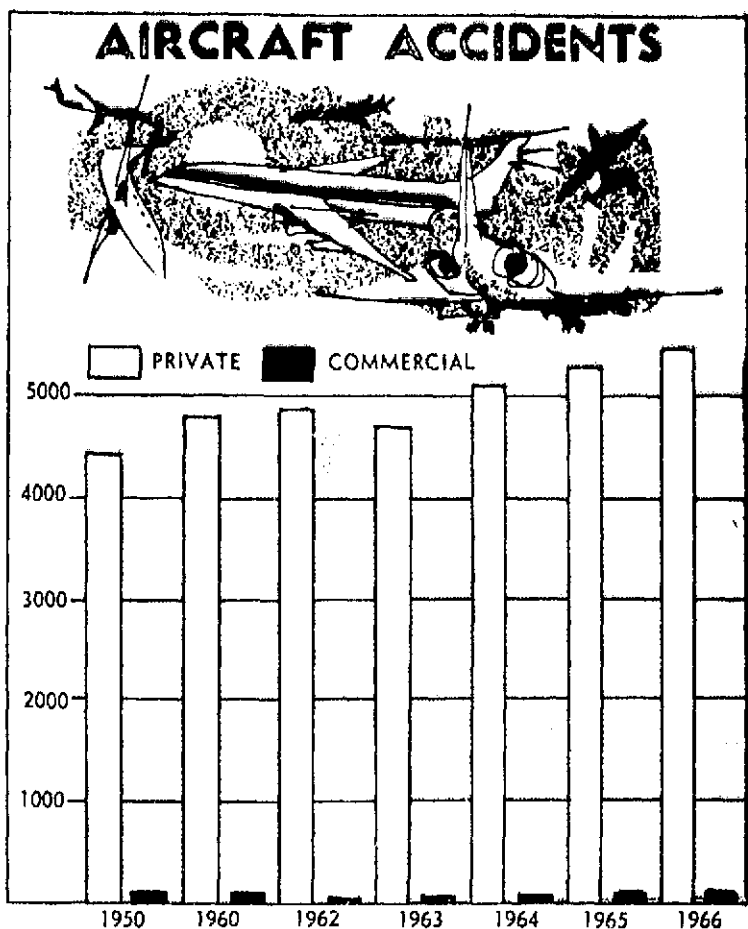

Hopson and three members of his staff were reported beaten by a mob which burned out the British Mission's building in Peking Tuesday night. The British government immediately placed restrictions on Shen and his staff and told them they could not leave Britain without special permission.

Britain recognized the Peking government shortly after Communist forces conquered the Chinese mainland in 1949. British officials have long argued that some link with mainland China is better than none.

They see no reason to revise that view even with the current state of almost no meaningful communication. China has spiced its notes with such terms as "fascist dogs" for the British, and the British have refused to accept the notes.

Officials admit, "There is little else we can do with the situation in China as it now is." Their main fear is that Mao Tse-tung's cultural revolution will get out of control and roll over Hong Kong.

Red organizers in the crown colony, apparently dismayed by lack of support for strikes and demonstrations earlier this summer, have turned to terrorism in their effort to force the colonial government to knuckle under as the Portuguese government of Macao did earlier.

In the face of such troubles, the British policy has been to maintain the traditional stiff upper lip.

The diplomat who has been maintaining it in Peking, despite demonstrations outside the British Mission and repeated middle-of-the-night summonses to the Chinese Foreign Ministry, is one of the most decorated men in the British foreign service.

Hopson, who has been in Peking for two years, won the Distinguished Service Order and Military Cross for bravery in World War II.

The 51-year-old diplomat has served in other tough posts, notably in Budapest and Laos. One colleague describes him as "the perfect example of the unflappable British Guards officer."

Shen Ping is equally unflappable, but in an inscrutable Oriental manner. More than once when summoned to the British Foreign Office has begun to read out notes that Hopson had already rejected in Peking.

British Fighting to Save Queen Elizabeth from U.S.

By TOM A. CULLEN
NEA Staff Correspondent

LONDON — (NEA) — "Remember the Queen Mary!" has become the battle cry of a hard core of Britons who are determined that America shall not capture the 83,000-ton liner Queen Elizabeth when she comes up for sale next year.

The Queen Mary was recently bought by Long Beach, Calif., for $3.5 million for use as a combined hotel and maritime museum. Her sister ship, the 30-year-old Queen Elizabeth, will likewise be knocked down to the highest bidder when she comes out of service in 1968.

Both Queens are being replaced by a smaller vessel, as yet unnamed but known only as the Q4, which will be launched by Her Majesty Queen Elizabeth on Sept. 20. The new ship will be used for round-the-world winter cruises, as well as for the North Atlantic run.

Meanwhile, news that at least two American syndicates are interested in bidding for the Queen Elizabeth has set the armchair admirals to firing off salvos to The London Times.

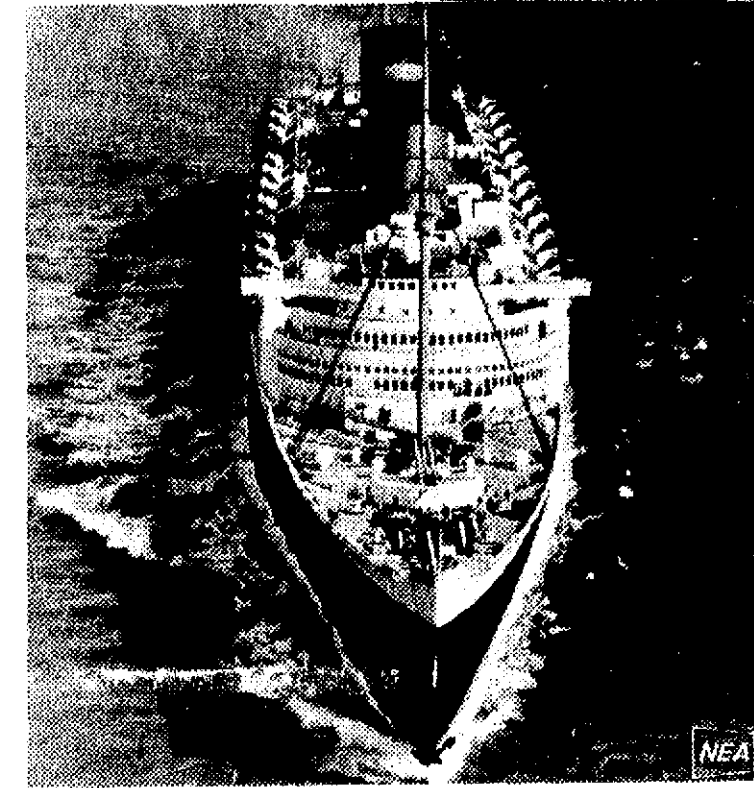

Better the Queen Elizabeth should be torpedoed than to suffer the fate of the Queen Mary, cry the Admiral Blimps. (No amount of arguing can convince them that Long Beach does not intend to turn the Queen Mary into some sort of funfair exhibit.)

However, to the suggestion that the Queen Elizabeth should be preserved as a national monument the objection is made that the British Isles are already cluttered with ships preserved for one reason or another. These include Nelson's flagship, the Victory; Admiral Scott's Discovery, used in exploring the Antarctic; and the Cutty Sark, one of the fastest of the old tea clippers.

Others have suggested that the Queen Elizabeth be turned into a hotel, or used as a floating school. Unfortunately, the liner has a 39-foot draught, which means that she cannot navigate the Thames or any other river in Britain.

In any event, the Cunard Steamship line, which owns the Queen Elizabeth, will be guided by cash rather than sentiment in selling her. "Our job is to get the best possible price for our shareholders," says Sir Basil Smallpiece, board chairman.

Cunard's, incidentally, is amazed at the American interest shown in the recent bidding for the Queen Mary; they were prepared to sell it to a shipbreaker for about half the price finally agreed to.

THE QUEEN ELIZABETH, shown in happier days, will go out of service in 1968 and Americans are interested in buying the ship. Britons, however, have other ideas.

If anything, the Queen Elizabeth has even greater ties with America than the Queen Mary, for hundreds of thousands of American troops were transported to Europe in her during World War II.

The Queen Elizabeth is a typical product of the aspirin age, having been christened at the height of the Munich crisis in September 1938. After war was declared, the government's chief concern was to get the Queen Elizabeth out of Britain, for the huge, unfinished liner would have made a perfect sitting target for Hitler's bombers.

On March 2, 1940, the Queen Elizabeth, unarmed and escorted, made a secret dash across the Atlantic to New York, the most daring maiden voyage in maritime history.

For although the liner had sufficient speed to evade submarines, no one knew how her engines would perform; they had had none of the trials which usually precede the commissioning of a ship.

During the war, the Queen Elizabeth, painted a drab gray, transported Commonwealth troops to the Middle East and 8th Army reinforcements to Africa. But mostly she was assigned to the Atlantic run. She made 31 voyages between England and New York from August 1942 to D-Day, 1945. Her troop-carrying capacity was increased to 15,600, which meant that she could transport whole divisions at a time.

There were some close shaves, too. On Nov. 9, 1942, the Queen Elizabeth was outward-bound for New York with 7,300 passengers, mostly women and children evacuees, when she was attacked by a German U-boat. All four torpedoes missed their target, thus averting what would have been one of the greatest tragedies in maritime history.

At war's end, Winston Churchill paid tribute to the Queens who had "challenged the fury of Hitlerism in the Battle of the Atlantic." "At a speed never before realized in war, they carried over a million men to defend the liberties of civilization," he said.

It is with Churchill's words in mind that many Britons advocate scrapping the Queen Elizabeth after her last run. This would be a more fitting end for the old lady than to be turned into a peep-show, they argue.

Her plate could be melted down and incorporated in the sinews of another ocean-going vessel. That way she could take to the sea again, and thus achieve a kind of immortality.

Union Against Election Plan

FORREST CITY, Ark. (AP) — The International Brotherhood of Teamsters have indicated in letters to employees of Warwick Electronics that the union will not participate in the plant's decertification election scheduled for Friday.

Warwick officials said Tuesday the union has not notified the company of its withdrawal.

QUICK RESPONSE firefighting may be stepped up a notch with this quick-lock fire hose connection for fire plugs, devised by Stanford University student engineers. The connection may be screwed into existing threaded openings of every type of fire plug, or can be manufactured as part of new equipment and eliminate the danger of easily damaged threads.

No Strain for Defense Measure

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate moved quickly today to work out differences with the House on the nation's largest single appropriation in history, a $70.1 billion defense spending bill.

The Senate overwhelmingly approved the bill Tuesday night, 85 to 3, after turning back several attempts to trim the total and hearing that the Vietnam war may require additional billions later.

The Senate's final version was more than $1.45 billions less than President Johnson has asked and more than $162 million less than the House voted.

Voting against the bill were Sens. Wayne Morse, D-Ore., Ernest Gruening, D-Alaska, and Stephen M. Young, D-Ohio, opponents of Vietnam war policy. Shortly after passing the bill the Senate named Sen. John Stennis, D-Miss., the bill's floor manager, and a group of other senators to work out a compromise bill with the House. Stennis said the two groups would meet today.

The differences that must be reconciled before final passage sends the bill to the President include these Senate actions:

— $17.7 million reduction from the $287 million administration request to continue development of the controversial F111B aircraft, the Navy version of the swept-wing airplane backed by Secretary of Defense

Robert S. McNamara. The House had allowed $208.8 million to buy 20 of the planes. The Senate provided $115 million for six aircraft.

— Elimination of a House rider which would have prohibited purchase of any naval vessel built in a foreign shipyard.

— A $146 million slash from military personnel funds voted by the House. Senators said they acted because recent administration requests had been overstated and the money used later for other projects.

— Rejection of a Marine Corps bid to build a $123 million amphibious assault ship. The cut was part of a general $174.7 million reduction in procurement funds allowed by the House.

— A $141 million addition to operations and maintenance funds and a $40 million addition to research and development funds, both voted by the House.

The Senators approved $11.9 million to continue operation of 45 B52 aircraft McNamara has wanted to drop from active service, and they rejected his request for $233.5 million to build five fast deployment logistic ships to serve as floating arsenals or supply centers. They also eliminated $67.6 million voted last year for two similar ships.

And both wings of Congress asked that some $970 million now on hand be spent to immediately begin construction of ballistic missile defense system, to match a similar installation under construction in the Soviet Union. To back up their demand they added $730 million in new funds.

Tulsa Approves Big Bond Issue

TULSA, Okla. (AP)—A $17.5 million bond issue for construction of port and industrial park facilities at the head of the $1.2 billion Arkansas River navigation project was approved Tuesday by Tulsa voters.

Complete, unofficial returns from the city's 254 precincts gave the proposal 22,687 votes with 13,770 recorded against it. The port will be constructed on the Verdigris River at Catoosa, a small town three miles from the northeastern city limits of Tulsa, and will connect the oil capital with Mississippi River barge traffic when the Arkansas-Verdigris navigational channel is completed in 1970. The Verdigris flows into the Arkansas River about 50 miles downstream near Muskogee, Okla.

Muskogee, Fort Smith, Ark., and Little Rock, Ark., already have voted funds for port construction.

Somebody Taking Traffic Signs

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
NEW YORK (AP) — Traffic Commissioner Henry A. Barnes blames souvenir hunters for a missing traffic sign taken from Washington Square Park in Greenwich Village.

"It's probably hanging around with a Picasso in some Village artist's studio," he said.

The sign reading "To Broadway and South" was erected to indicate a new traffic pattern around the park. Barnes said a new one is being made and will be set in concrete.
